Lakeland Regional High School's College Forensic Science class attended "On The Front Line: New Frontiers in Forensics, Crime & Security" conference on Tuesday, April 4th at Columbia University. Prior to the conference they entered the video competition. The video requirements were to select a criminal investigated case of interest and explain in a three minute video how forensic science was integral in solving the case. The class selected the "Lindbergh Baby Kidnapping" since it took place in New Jersey. The video, directed by Frank Frascella, was presented as a silent video with subtitles, pictures and actual video clips of the case investigation. The Charlie Chaplin song "The Kid" was the background music. At the culmination of the conference, Lakeland Regional High School was announced as the video competition winner!
